

Are you a teen interested in paid research?

If you are between the ages of 14 to 16, you can participate in a confidential FIU research study on how the use of marijuana affects thinking abilities. We are looking for teens that do not use marijuana (weed) and teens that use or have used marijuana. You will be paid up to $480 for completing the study.

To participate you must:

- ✓ Be 14 to 16 years old
- ✓ Be in school and able to read and write well in English
- ✓ Complete a telephone survey to see if you qualify
- ✓ Make three visits to Florida International University and complete two phone surveys over two years
- ✓ Complete a confidential saliva drug screen and breath test for alcohol and nicotine
- ✓ Complete confidential questionnaires about medical history, mental health and drug use
- ✓ Complete tests of thinking skills

The study does NOT involve taking any medicines, blood tests, or any painful or invasive procedures. Your answers and test results will be private and confidential - they will not be shared with anyone outside of the study: not your parents, school or doctor.

Call, email or text us to learn more about the study or find out if you qualify.
